A MARDI GRAS CELEBRATION

Lee's  Place

Lee's Place

... is a not-for-profit grief and loss counseling center specializing in children and families. The organization was founded in 2000 by Brenda Rabalais and is named in memory of her son Lee, who died of bone cancer at the age of 14 in 1996. It is the mission of Lee's Place to provide counseling and educational services to those who are adjusting to a loss. Some of these losses include divorce, abandonment (foster care children and adoptees), death, imprisonment, and life transitions. Fees for counseling are adjusted according to the client's ability to pay.

Dear Friends,

I want to personally invite you to our annual gala event. We had such a good time last year dancing, eating good food, and being with our friends. We would love to have you come join us and celebrate the work that has been accomplished at Lee's Place this year. Your support will make a difference in the live of a grieving family.
