Because he might sit next to your kid on the bus.

Because he might be a great running back for the Lions.

Because he could be the first on the scene when your brother crashes.

Because your daughter might go out with him.

Because he might find your wallet on the street.

Because he might work for your company.

"He's not my kid. Why should I help raise him?"

Because he could be your nephew's boss.

Because it costs $40,000 a year to keep someone in prison.

Because he might invent a cure for your grandson's fatal disease.

Because he might be a teacher at your neighborhood school.

Because he might be a nurse at your parents' assisted living facility.

Because he might buy a sandwich for the guy who was about to rob your wife.

Because there's enough misery in the world already.

Because we're in this together.
